

SPANISH DICTIONARY

furoya

INTRODUCTION

www.wordmeaning.org is an open and collaborative dictionary project that, apart from being able to consult meanings of words, also offers its users the possibility of including new words or nuancing the meaning of existing words in it. As is understandable, this project would be impossible to carry out without the esteemed collaboration of the people who follow us around the world. This e-Book, therefore, was born with the intention of paying a small tribute to all our collaborators.

furoya has contributed to the dictionary with 15093 meanings that we have approved and collected in this small book. We hope that the reader is very valuable and if you find it useful or want to be part of the project, do not hesitate to visit our website, we will be delighted to receive you.

Working Group

www.wordmeaning.org

súperrriqueza

Burrada by . . . Is there 'super-wealth'? 128533; See super-, super, wealth.

súpervigilancia

Error by 'supervigilance', which would be the word 'surveillance' with the prefix 'super-'.

swahili

It is a Bantu language widely spread in East Africa. It has a Spanish version as Swahili, as Swahili would be its spelling in English. See pidgin, nago.

swat

Acronym for " Special Weapons And Tactics " (" Weapons and 34 special tactics;). American elite police group.

swing

1º_ Dance musical genre, heir of jazz. It is mainly rhythmic and is accompanied by the rocking of the body. In English swing means "swing", but it has more meanings by association, including that of "rhythm" precisely because of this music. 2º_ In some sports it is said of the cadentious movement, harmonic and precise of a player or athlete. 3º_ Figuratively it is the ability to adapt and recover in the face of adversity, following events in the best possible way.

t tauri

'T Tauri' is a type of low-mass star surrounded by gases that are supposed to form planets as it happens in our solar system. The name was taken from a representative star in the constellation Taurus.

t'pau

T'Pau is an English pop band formed in 1986. Their vocalist Carol Decker had not yet decided on a name for the group and while tidying up her apartment with the television on they began to spend the Amok time chapter of the Star Trek series (original) where they name several times the Vulcan leader T'Pau. And she thought it was a good way to call her band.

ta pa darle

Form reduced from " is to give you! ". Is concerned that a person brings enough merits to receive a benefit sexual.

taba

1º_ Astragalus, a more or less cubic bone in the foot or leg of an animal, near the heel. From Arabic 1603; 1593; 1576; 1577; (ka'aba "cube, dice"). By some mistake see tava ("frying pan used in Indian and Pakistani cuisine") . 2nd_ By the previous one, given for games of chance made with that bone of a ram or other animal and sometimes marked with dots or drawings on their faces, Also the winning side is called taba. See chuca, ass. It is a metonymy for the leg, which is used mostly in the expression "to move the tabas" ("to walk"). Taba is a spa town on the Red Sea Riviera (Egypt).

tabata

(By the woman's name see tab . By fitness see some publicity.) 1o_ Tabata is an administrative region in the district of Ilala (Dar es Salaam, Tanzania). 2nd_ Tabata is the name of several geographical sites in Japan (in Toukyouto Prefecture and Kumamoto Prefecture). It is also the name of a railway station in Tokyo.

tabelón

Type of brick for construction larger than the common . See board .

tabidez

In medicine is the broken state of an individual, with lack of forces from starvation, consumed physically.

tabla de mendeleyev

See periodic table of chemical elements, mendeleiev .

tabla periódica de los elementos químicos

There are actually several tables that group chemical elements by their characteristics, but the most famous is that of mendeleiev.

tabla pitagorica

Input double table that is in the first row and first column numbers from " 1 " and the product between two of them is where its coordinates are attached. It was created by the Pitágoras of Samos Greek mathematician.

tablero

Table by way of support to exhibition objects, mainly films, photographs, notices in general. By extension, support level as the artist table or the electrical service box.

tablero mural

See Board, mural.

tablón

1º_ It is a masculinized augmentative of "table", for those that are large and especially those that are used as support in construction on trestles to walk and transport materials on them. By extension any thick board that supports a weight, such as the stands in a stadium. 2º_ For construction, it is also said 'plank' or 'plank' to a type of brick larger than ordinary, perhaps as a reduction of "tabletón". 3º_ It is also a large and heavy table, which can be a Gallicism. 4º_ Plot planted with about 100 rods in frame, bordered by a line of higher ground forming beds. 5º_ Drunkenness . See suffix -on.

tabulado

That is shaped table, in the sense of grid to accommodate data.

taca

See also: foosball.

taca-taca

For the Buenos Aires lunfardo is " cash ". The original gesture would be to extend the Palm of a hand up as he hits it is repeatedly with the knuckles on the other, to indicate that " it should be 40 tickets; in principle were 41 currencies; on the hand, one at a time, ". " TACA taca " It is an onomatopoeia of those blows, to reinforce mimicry or when one speaks or writes and hands cannot be displayed. See: trigger.

tacc

Although at first it was an acronym like T. To. C . C . , today is written as the acronym TACC to mention the group of four gluten-containing cereals (wheat, oats, barley and rye). See celiac disease ("gluten allergy").

tacha

1st_ Nail, pin, bedbug or big bright brooch, metal or imitating metal; can be used for fastening or decoration. 2o_ Third singular person in this indicative of the verb tachar . 3rd_ Failure or imperfection in one thing. 4th_ Rejection of a witness or resource . 5o_ cooking stud, especially sugar or molaza. 6o_ Typographic mark for strikethrough or rejected, is used as a cancellation ideogram, although its emoji in some cultures is interpreted as a selected brand of ballot or checked, so there is the borderless and colored version of red that is best understood as denial : 100< , in addition to the character 10006; that always takes the color assigned to the text. See view .

tachero

1o_ Concerning the manufacture of sugar in tachos . 2o_ In lunfardo is the one who drives a taxi, very rarely and already deprecated is a watchmaker. View tachó (lunfardo) .

tacho

In lunfardo, " 34 tacho; It is a taxi and its driver a " 34 tachero;. The ancient mateos roamed the streets of Buenos Aires bringing passengers wore a large, circular clock resembling a pan (commonly called " tacho ") to take the time and calculate the value of their services; then the taximeters used the same system and by metonymy is appointed them " 34 cans; taking advantage of the similar pronunciation (taxi 8594; Tachi 8594; tacho). Also called thus at any clock, especially the very large bracelet; and more rarely to the heart, by Association of the Tic-Tac-Toe with the beats. Another possible etymology for taxis is arising in the English word " 34 tachometer; (41 tachometer; It is a distance counter, more akin to the modern taxi watches that combine the calculation of the time with the turns of the motor.

tachuelota

Augmentative tack . . . which is a diminutive of tacha (nail). Maybe it's a tack mistake.

taco

To the published definitions I add that taco is in general a solid and manually manageable block of some material such as wood, stone, plastic, and that is used as a stopper, as a support, or to fill a gap; From there it takes the meanings ranging from the set of leaves of a notepad or almanac to the raised part of a shoe in the heel, passing through foods such as churros or cubes of cheese and cold cuts in the chopped.

taco aguja

It is the name given in Spanish to the stiletto. See also taco ("heel"), needle.

tacuarembó

In slang, is a festive way to say " 40 ". Appears as a vesre 34 paragoge; tacuaren " , the name of the Uruguayan Department of Tacuarembó.

tafefobia

It is a variant of cataphephobia ("fear of being buried alive"), although in this case it could be extended to any grave. It is taken from the Greek 964; 945; 966; 959; 9> (Taphos "tomb") 966; 959; 946; 959; 9> (fivos "fear") .

tafiophobia

It is a variant of cataphephobia ("fear of being buried alive"), although in this case it could be extended to any grave. It is taken from the Greek τάφος; τάφος; τάφος; τάφος; τάφος (Taphos "tomb") φόβος; φόβος; φόβος; φόβος; φόβος (fivos "fear").

tafofilia

A hobby for visiting graves, cemeteries. it is formed by the Greek voices τάφος; τάφος; τάφος; τάφος; τάφος (taphos "tomb") φίλος; φίλος; φίλος; φίλος; φίλος; ("love, emotional inclination"). See necromania.

tafobia

It is a variant of cataphephobia ("fear of being buried alive"), although in this case it could be extended to any grave. It is taken from the Greek τάφος; τάφος; τάφος; τάφος; τάφος (Taphos "tomb") φόβος; φόβος; φόβος; φόβος; φόβος (fivos "fear").

tagale

Tagale is a village in the municipality of Bandiagara in the Mopti region of Mali. 2º_ It is another way of calling the Tagalog language of the Philippines.

tagalo

Indigenous people of the Philippines and their language, native to the island of Luzon.

tahalíes

Plural of tahalí .

tahuantinsuyo

Tahuantinsuyo is the name given by the Incas to the territory that encompassed their empire in the middle of the fifteenth century until the Spanish conquest in the sixteenth century. It was located in the Andean region of South America and its people grew into an empire by assimilating or subjugating the surrounding regions. The name tauantin suyu in Quechua means "four regions", as it was formed by the Chinchay Suyu, the Anti Suyu, the Coya Suyu and the Cunti Suyu.

tahuantinsuyu

It is another version for Tahuantinsuyo.

tai-chi

And. . . It wouldn't be in English where tai chi is preferred, which would actually be a (bad) apocope of tai chi chuan.

tailin

1o_ Tailin is a community in the region of Cajamarca (Peru). 2nd_ Tailin is a city in Shanxi Province (China)

taita

It is a tatita symphon, the diminutive of tata as "father". Being an expression of respect he was incorporated into the lunfardo as the "guapo", the "brave", the toughest in the neighborhood.

taitaq

If it is not an error for taita or an attempted spam, it can be a Mughal source name.

taksi en que idioma esta

Of course it is not a dictionary query. See taxi ("rental vehicle with driver") , in (preposition) , which , what , language , this , verbs / is .

tala

1°_ Inflection of the verb to cut down, and the same act of "cutting trees until leaving only their foot". See verbs/felling.
2°_ By the previous one, dike or barrier made with logs and cut trees. 3°_ Game of skills, where you jump a wooden cue to hit it with a stick and throw it away. See pingola. 4°_ Common name of the tree Celtis ehrenbergiana . 5°_ Monetary unit of Samoa . See sene .

talabateria concepto

See saddlery , concept .

talasa

Thalassa is incorrectly written, and should be written as "thalassa" being its meaning:
Greek, usually written expression as " 34 thalassa; (Theta; Alpha; Lambda; Alpha; Sigma; Sigma; Alpha;) " which means the sea ". Used when arriving to a geographical place on hard, and has its origins in history " Anabasis " or " Expedition of the ten thousand " of Xenophon, where as the vanguard of the army of Cyrus starts to scream " Thalassa, thalassa! " to see the dead sea which brings them to his home in the return of the battle.

talasofilia

As a paraphilia it would be a bit weird, so it must be because of the hobby or pleasure of being at sea. It comes from the Greek 952; 945; 955; 945; 963; 963; 949; 965; 969; (thalasseo "sea") 966; 953; 955; 953; 945; ("love, affective inclination") . See thalasse.

talasofobia

It is a phobia of the sea, of large expanses of water. It is a word of Greek components: 952; 945; 955; 945; 963; 963; 945; (thalassa "sea") 966; 959; 946; 959; 9> (fobos "fear") . See potamophobia, pleophobia, hydrophobia, dinophobia, napathy, thalase.

talco

1°_ Magnesium silicate, a mineral that is used in cosmetics when powdered. From the Old Arabic Voice 1591; 1604; 1602; (talq), which took it from Persian 1578; 1575; 1604; 1705; (talk). 2°_ By association with the powder, it is called "talcum powder". . . " or " . . . in talc" to finely ground products, such as powdered sugar or even, ironically, cocaine powder.

taleguillo

Diminutive of talego (various meanings) .

talero

Argentina calls Thaler a rebenque or strip of leather with handle a short whip for fuelling the horse or as occasional weapon.

taliban

It doesn't really have English origin, it's the Pashtun Arabic name for "students" who interpret the name as "seminarists."
It was popularized as the name of a Sunnisited fundamentalist faction of Afghan origin that spread across several Islamic nations. He played an important role in foreign invasions of his territory, as they have military power. The word 1591; 1575; 1604; 1576; 1575; 1606; (Taliban) consists of Arabic 1591; 1575; 1604; 1576; (talib "student") the suffix for Persian plurals 1575; 1606; (_an) . As in English the _an ending is used in Gentiles or groups of belonging in singular, it was taken to 'taliban' as a singular creating 'talibans' as its plural. The curious fact is that 'taliban' is also a neologism for Arabic, because in that language the Persian suffix '_an' does not mean plural but 'double'.

talibana

Taliban female.

talibanear

It is "behaving like a Taliban", although the exact meaning will depend on the context.

talibán

Member of a Sunnita militia. Although the name has Arabic origin, it became popular in Spanish through news arrivals from the United States and its English version, so I suggest seeing English/Taliban for the etymology and origin of the number error.

talibé

It is the name given in some African countries to pupil children in Muslim schools (daara) where they learn about the Qur'aan. One characteristic by which they are considered to be in a situation of child abuse and exploitation is that one of their obligations is to financially support their master (marabut), for which they take to the streets to beg and even steal. The original Arabic name is 1591; 1575; 1604; 1576; 8206; (talib "student"). See Taliban, English/Taliban .

talía

Name of woman, and of various mythological characters. It has Greek origin where 952; 945; 955; 949; 953; 945; (talia) means "floridian, flourished", although in the Latin version it changed the accent to the one we use in Spanish.

tallarines rojos

Recipe for a popular meal in Peru based on noodles or other noodles with a sauce of crushed tomatoes and seasoned with red peppers, which usually accompany chicken meat. See ramen.

tallas x

Plural size x (snake) ?

tallos

Plural of stem, in its multiple meanings.

talofilia

As paraphilia, it would be of a rather poetic name for a variant of hebephilia. Sexual inclination would be given to a puberty, developing person; and Greek etymology is inspired by 952; 945; 955; 955; 969; (thallo "flower, develop") filia .

talon de aquiles

Vulnerable part of something or someone hard to beat. There is a myth according to which the Greek hero Achilles was protected baby by her mother by submerging your body in the Styx Lake while he was a heel. The water made him invulnerable, but the taba was not protected and at the end he was killed by an arrow poisoned in the heel.

tam

TAM can be an acronym with various meanings. The most common in English was Telephone Answering Machine, but in each place it has a different development, as in Argentina for the "medium Argentine tank". Internationally is the IATA ID for General Francisco Javier Mina Airport, in Tampico (Mexico).

tamango

In lunfardo it is shoe, and is used more in plural. It comes from the Portuguese tamanco ("clog, shoes") and in principle it was a leather cutout to wrap each foot.

tambor de encino

Another name for the granie tree.

tamizar

Pass something through a sieve ("sieve, sieve") to filter and select the contents. It is also used figuratively for "separating or discriminating the bad from something".

tampoco conozco antonimos

See also, know, antonym, that they are the adverb, verb and noun that make up this phrase.

tan

1º_ Apocope of so much . 2º_ Bark of the holm oak tree. 3º_ Onomatopoeia of a chime.

tan-tan

Tan-Tan is a Moroccan town in the Guelmim-Noun River region.

tanaj

Tanakh is the name of the set of 24 holy books for Judaism. It is a transliteration of the Hebrew acronym 1514; 1463; 1468; 1504; 1463; 1498; 1456; which is formed with the initials of the 3 parts that divides the full text : 1514; 1468; 1493; 1465; 1512; 1464; 1492; (Torah "Law") , 1504; 1456; 1489; 14< 1497; 1488; 14< 1497; 1501; (Nevi'im "prophets") and 1499; 1456; 1468; 1514; 1493; 1468; 1489; 14< 1497; 1501; (Ketuvim "Writings") [note: in this case, being the last letter, the final soft kaf / 1498 is used; 1456;/ which sounds like the /j/ of Spanish] .

tanatico

See tanatic.

tanatofobia

Irrational and obsessive fear of death, which may or may not be one's own. From Greek 952; 945; 957; 945; 964; 959; 9> (thanatos , "death") 966; 959; 946; 959; 9> (fivos "fear") .

tanatomania

Obsessive love of death and related topics (funerals, burials and cemeteries) Greek 952; 945; 957; 945; 964; 959; 9> (thanatos , " 34 death;) and 956; 945; 957; 953; 945; (mania , " 34 madness;) .

tanático

Death, regarding the death pulsion. It is a word that comes from the name of the Greek deity Thanatos.

tancredismo

It is a Spanish word for a lance or show inside the bullfights where an interpreter made a "Don Tancredo", which was a kind of "living statue" on a pedestal, dressed in somewhat ridiculous and originally white clothes, standing motionless in front of the onslaught of a bull so that he believes it to be a true statue and thus avoid it instead of cornealing it. By extension it is said of the unperturbable attitude to a danger. The origin of this expression has much of a myth; it is attributed to a Spanish flag named Tancredo López who in Mexico saw an indigenous man stand motionless before a wild bull to prevent his attack, and when he returned to his homeland in the late nineteenth century perfected the technique to present himself as a bullfighting artist in the sand pretending to be a statue, and that the animal should ignore him. His career ended when he was released by one previously taught to ram a white monigoth.

tanga

In lunfardo he is the partner of the rapturous thief or punguista who distracts the victim. At first he was the casino employee who pretended to win to encourage other bettors. See gurupí, I hope, tongo, entongar.

tangida

Tangida is a town in Puruliya District, West Bengal, India.

tangífero

No, it's not the greengrocer who transports mandarins, it's more of a rangific mistake. See also tangerine , -fero .

tango

1º_ Music, poetry and dance typical of the Río de la Plata region. The name seems to be of African origin, and is understood as "dance place". 3º_ It is a type of flamenco style. 4º_ It is another name for the game of chito; by the old verb tañer ("to touch") , because when playing the yew to the cylinder is sung "tango" ("verbs / toco") and the bet coins are won. 5º_ Inflection of the verb tangar ("to swindle"). See verbs/tango .

tano

Apheresis of napolitano. In Argentina it is named all the Italians, although they come from other regions of the peninsula.

tantarria

It is another name for the xamue (insect).

tantán

1º_ Chimes onomatopoeia. The same bell . 2º_ Percussion instrument. 3rd_ Humorous pun that uses the formula "[Something or someone] is so, so [some characteristic], that [an absurd or exaggerated comparison]".

tanto

1º_ Adjective and also pronoun indicating a quantity . 2º_ If it is used as a noun it is also to name something that makes a count . 3º_ As an adverb compares quantities . See so .

tanzania

The United Republic of Tanzania (Jamhuri ya Muungano wa Tanzania, officially in South-East Africa) is an African country on the east coast in the Indian Ocean. Its name comes from the union of the first syllables of the nations that formed it in 1964: the Republic of Tanganychica and the Republic of Zanzibar.

tañia

It can be an error by gañia (gañir), tañía (tañir), dyeing (dyeing), tania, Toña (toño), thyía, tapeia, tafia, tasia (tasio),

tap

1°_ Type of dance with rhythmic movements of the feet that produce when hitting the shoes against the ground a sound that accompanies the music. It is of Afro origin, very popular in the USA. In Spanish llama also tap. 2°_ 'TAP' is the IATA code for Tapachula International Airport (Chiapas, Mexico). 3°_ In English 'tap' has several meanings as an acronym.

tapabocas

1°_ It is another way of calling the chinstrap, mask (for the latter it is also the plural). 2°_ Any device that closes the open end of a tube, chimney, channel.

tapia

1st_ Wooden blocks or other building material to form walls, fences, dividers, roofs. Also the same division. 2nd_ Old surface measurement. 3o_ Second (as 'you') and third (as 'he/she') people in singular present indicative mode, and second (as 'you') person in singular imperative for the verb tapiar. See verbs/tapia.

taquería

Lunfardo is the Commissioner with black hole. In addition to the etymology which brings closer us to hugo craviotto, can also come from 34 sound; Tac! ", door that locked, or because there were "tacheros" or policemen who wore sable (in this case, "34 tacho; It is synonymous with "Tin").

taquito

Diminutive of taco. The expression "taquito" Jorge Luis Tovar Díaz refers to that to make a move for gol with the heel or the taco gave rise to its use for any act that is performed with skill and class.

tarahumara

Name put by the Spanish conquistadors to the Rarámuri people (hrarámuri "of the light feet") who inhabit the Sierra Madre Occidental of Mexico.

tarangos

Plural of tarango in some of its meanings.

tarasca

1st_ Fabulous animal, giant sawn with turtle shell and lion's head of huge jaws with which devastated the French region of Beaucaire, then named with the eponymous Tarascon (Tarascon); according to legend it was tamed by Santa Marta. The name comes from the Latin tractiare ("destroy"). 2nd_ Female tarasco. 3o_ In lunfardo is money to be paid or distributed, and the origin is in tarascon, which also comes from the monster Tarasca by its large mouth, or perhaps in tarazar. In principle it was the "bite", the part of the stolen loot or the kite to be distributed.

tarasco

1st_ Name with which the Spanish conquistadors called the people purépecha in Mexico, today it is considered a derogatory mode. 2o_ Relative to the mythological animal Tarasca and its bite or denture . 3o_ Bite; can be associated with tarasca or directly to tarazar. 4th_ From the Tarascon region (France). 5th_ Ugly, it is usually said of someone. 6o_ First singular person of the present indicative form of the verb tarascar .

taratines

It can be a mistake by the plural of tarantín.

tarazcada

Tarascada variant, hummed, atarazcada . Relative to tarasca .

tarcos

Plural of tarco.

tardísimo

Superlative of afternoon.

tardoantigua

Female late antique ("relative to the period known as Late Antiquity").

tardoantiguo

Relating to the period known as Late Antiquity.

tarifa

1º_ List of prices or preset values, usually for taxes or public services. 2º_ Tarifa is a municipality located in the province of Cádiz, Spain.

tarifazo

Rate hit, especially in utilities when they have a disproportionate value increase.

tarlipas

Feminized form of tarlipas. See: Tarlipas.

tarlipas

A little strange Vesre " 34 balls; used in plural since he appoints to the testicles. Could also be a way to vesrica of " 34 beads; , although there is no record that this word is used to name the testes.

tarolas

Plural of tarola . For some mistake see turtledove, lamppost, tarrola? .

tarrito

Diminutive jar.

tarro

1 ° _ container to store a product, usually edible, although it can be any other that should be kept without spread (as a jar of nails). 2nd _ in lunfardo is fortune, "jar" is "luck". It comes indirectly from "housewives of milk", said that they are breastfeeding with 'good' or 'nasty' and that changed the character of the baby. Was happy who had "good milk", because having milk also was feeling lucky; and when it began to be sold in jars, "a jar of milk" was very lucky. Then he was simply "having jar". See ass. 3rd _ in slang is also shoe, although most used in the plural.

tarta de cerezas

See pie, cherry.

tartana

1 ° _ name applied to various birds of prey, the origin may be onomatopoeic. 2nd _ small Latin sail boat, was common to that they allocate to the sailing ships names of birds. 3rd _ small two-wheeled cart, may name an analogy by the boat, taken to a ground transportation. 4th _ old, ramshackle vehicle; Perhaps as irony as "old as a cart", but can also result in the sound of the engine, since its etymology may be between trap and tartaja (stuttering).

tartufo

Tartufo (in French Tartuffe, truffle) It is a work of Moliere that bears the name of its main character, a con man who takes advantage of the devotees to take away their inheritances. That miserable attitude was so well described the word " 34 Tartuffe; became synonymous with false, artero, a despicable being.

tarupido

Tarupido is incorrectly written and should be written as "Tarúpido" being its meaning: see Tarúpido.

tarúpido

Of calibration stupid; term created by the actress and screenwriter Niní Marshal.

tarwi

It is another variant of the name tawri (plant).

tarzen

'Tarzen' was a Spanish-Argentine hard rock band reunited in Spain in 1985. The name is a tribute to Tarzan, a character in several Edgar Rice Burroughs novels since Tarzan of the Apes in 1814, and in attention to a certain tribal aesthetic of the band on stage. Since they did not have the rights to use the name, they changed it to Tarzen, which sounds similar in English.

tasa

1°_ It is a word used in economics and statistics for a relationship between two values, usually a percentage of increase or decrease. This is commonly the name given to the "bank interest rate" and the "tax rate". 2°_ Inflection of the verb tasar . See verbs/rate.

tasazo

It is an unexpected and/or excessive increase in bank interest rates or in utility and tax rates. The suffix -azo rather than augmentative is understood as a hit .

tasofobia

It's a phobia of "sitting still," especially if it's for leisure, which expanded the concept to "fear of leisure." It comes from the Greek 952; 945; 963; 963; 969; (thassoo "to sit") 966; 959; 946; 959; 9> (fovos "fear").

tata dios

" means God the father ". The etymology of " tata " It depends on the location, since it is one of the few words that are said to equal (or nearly) in several languages without connection to each other. The insect " 34 mantis; It is called tatadios because it is typically the " 34 hands; together in front of the head, as if he were praying.

tatadios

Error by tabysing . See tata dios, mantis, santateresa , mamboretá .

tatadiós

Another name for the mantis insect, santateresa, mamboretá.

tatuar la vagina

To be a literal phrase, "tattooing [on] the vagina" seems difficult to practice. It would be more believable if it referred to "tattooing [a design of] the vagina," though it's still complicated. On the other hand, as a locution, it can be interpreted as "marking a man to a woman (in a sexual sense) as one's own", as explained by colleague Iván Higuera. See vulva .

tatús

Plural of tatu.

tau'ri

In the fictional universe (or universes) of the Stargate franchise is the name given by the Goa'uld to the native humans of planet Earth. In their language it means "those of the first world".

taumaturgo

In ancient Greece, a 952; 945; 965; 956; 945; 964; 959; 965; 961; 947; 959; 9> (taumatourós) was a magician, even a sorcerer; Later Christianity made him a holy thousand-year-maker. It consists of 952 voices; 945; 965; 956; 945; 964; 959; 9> ("wonderful" thaúmatos) 949; 961; 947; 959; 957; (ergon "task, work").

taura

Lunfardo is a bold, strong, courageous person with no devious attitudes. It is a small, which surely came from the Spanish, by associating it with the characteristics of a bull

taurino

Relative to the zodiacal sign of Taurus.

taurofilia

Sexual perversion who is attracted to bulls or cattle in general. Greek 964; 945; 965; 961; 959; 9> (tauros, " 34 Bull;) and 966; 953; 955; 953; 945; (filia, " love, affective inclination ").

tava

It is the name of a frying pan used in Indian and Pakistani cuisine.

tawri

It is one of the common names of lupin (plant) and its seed. 'Tawri' or 'tarwi' are voices of Quechua origin. By some mistake see T Tauri, tau'ri.

taxi

Metered apocope, which is what this "urban rental vehicle with your driver" takes to know how much the passenger is charged for their trip. See stud .

taxi boy

It is an expression of English, but it is also used in Spanish to name the young man who offers sex to gays and also to women, although the latter is less common. They usually gave the service in a taxi, and from there the name. See taxi, English/boy .

taxiboy

It is a way of calling the male (usually young) who offers sexual services to gays, although it can also be to women or couples, but then they usually have other names. In principle they offered themselves on the street and lifted them by car, from there the association with the English taxi boy ("taxi boy") which in Spanish is already used as a single word, and which is not yet in the dictionary.

taxímetro

1º_ It is an accountant used by rental vehicles to calculate the rate to be charged to the passenger. The car and its driver were also called that. The word is composed of the Greek voices 964; 945; 958; 953; 9> (taxis "rate, tax") 956; 949; 964; 961; 959; 957; (metron "measure") . See taxi , tacho . 2º_ Nautical instrument that allows to orient the horizontal angle of navigation taking as reference the North of the compass.

taxodicea

It is the feminine of taxodiaceum ("relative to the coniferous family taxodiaceae") without the stressed vowel.

taxonomía

Systematized classification by name, it is said especially in biology. From the Greek 964; 945; 958; 953; 9> (taxis "sorting") 959; 957; 959; 956; 945; (onoma "name") .

taza

A cup is a handheld container for drinking liquids, as a feature it has a handle to hold it and bring it to the mouth. It is also an approximate measurement, for "what fits in a cup". It is usually associated with what has a concave shape, and more if it is faience, ceramic or porcelain, such as p . e.g. . "The toilet bowl" .

taza china

In addition to the literal meaning of "a cup of Chinese origin", it is called the one that does not have a handle although sometimes it has a lid, and is used in the East to drink tea taking it with both hands and thus feel its temperature. Obviously, the Chinese do not call it 'Chinese cup', for them it is a 33590; 30871; (cha wan "cup of tea") . See bowl, bowl.

taza de cafe

See cup (container), coffee (infusion), and although it seems only a phrase also coffee cup.

taza de café

It is understood as "cup full of coffee infusion, to drink", but as tableware is a cup with a particular size and even a shape, and as a consequence it is also a reference of capacity measurement for other liquids, powders, grains, . . .

tazón

Augmentative masculinized cup, for one larger than usual or for a bowl with foot or support base.

tazón sin asas

See bowl, sin, handle, altamía, bowl, chinese cup, bowl.

tazumal

Tazumal is a site that was part of the Toltec empire in the present-day district of Chalchuapa (El Salvador), occupied by the Maya until the 13th century, when it was abandoned. Today its ruins are an archaeological area.

ta´bano

It can be many things, depending on context. A way of writing is good badly pronounced by an idiom; can also be is bath as a Variant vain is parochial, influenced by banal; Perhaps a mistake of typing, with what can end in horsefly (most likely), cigar, radish, tobacco, is in the bathroom,

tábata

Tábata is a woman's name. It may have an Aramaic origin, where tabia meant "roe deer, gazelle".

tánatos

Personification of death in Greek mythology; 920; 945; 957; 945; 964; 959; 9> (Thanatos, death), twin of Hypnos, the Keres brothers; in Roman mythology was Mors or Letus/Letum.

tártagos

Plural of Tatar (Euphorbia lathyris, "disgust", "heavy joke").

tártaro

1st_ A name for the region of Tartary, in Asia; so does their language. Tartarus is a poetic way of calling the Inferno.
3º_ Layer of tartar, especially that which forms on the teeth or that which remains at the bottom of a vessel with must.

te

1o_ Name of the letter "t" . 2o_ Pronoun form you . 3o_ 'Te' is the symbol of the chemical element "tellurium".

te amo mucho

Yes, thanks. See you, verbs/love, love, a lot.

te o té

See you, tea.

te quiero mucho

I love myself very much, too. See you, verbs/I want, a lot.

teca

1st_ '-teca' is a Greek suffix that points to a collection, a cabinet for storing valuable objects. It comes from 952; 951; 954; 951; (théke, "armario, box"). 2nd_ Reliquary, specifically the one that stores relics . 3o_ In fungi, it is the cell that generates or contains spores. 4o_ Verbaceous tree (Tectona grandis) originating in the East . 5o_ In lunfardo is "money, usually in a certain amount". It may come from the English stock ("meeting of negotiable goods"), but it is more believable an Italian origin like steca ("splinter", which in lunfa is also used to call money) and can even be a association with "a share of the stick (million, a lot of money).

technosexual

It is not a word in Spanish where the neologism 'technosexual' (inspired by metrosexual) already exists, not only for the meaning of "who wears the latest in personal technology"; but also for "those who use technological gadgets in their sexual practices".

techo de cristal

This phrase is used in situations where a person can climb positions within an organization and obtain a better position or a higher rank, but those who must promote it deny the possibility and put a limit, for reasons of gender, race, religion, for any reason that can not be publicly whitewashed since it is always discriminatory. That way you put a ceiling on your aspirations, which is real but does not look, as if it were "glass".

tecla

1º_ Mechanical part to be pressed with a finger that is connected to a machine, musical instrument, electrical circuit, . . . and produces a change of state in them. It comes from the Latin tegula, ae ("tile for roofing", because of its shape). See button, push button. 2º_ It is also a feminine name of Theclo. 3º_ Valencianism for "neurotic, hypochondriac, obsessive, heavy, annoying, . . . ". 4th_ Feminine of teclo ("elder") .

teclas

Plural of key, in its many meanings. [Note: the definition of Cayetano Peláez del Rosal actually comes from a Valencian voice for "difficulty, almost always neurotic disease (hyperactive, hypochondriac)", which has its singular. See "be a key".]

teclo

1st_ Old man, old man. From Quechua tecla ("that trembles") . 2º_ It is a masculine name of Greek origin, but is used more like its feminine Thecla, and has Greek origin, probably from 952; 949; 959; 9> (Theos "God") 954; 955; 949; 959; 9> (kleos "glory"), which is interpreted as "glory of God").

tecnicismo

Concerning the technical aspect.

tecnicismos

Plural of technicality.

tecnofobia

It's not really a phobia, but a rejection of technology, to technological development. Although it may have a pathological origin, it is almost always given for socioeconomic or philosophical reasons. The voice is formed from the Greek 964; 949; 967; 957; 951; (say "art, science, skill") 966; 959; 946; 959; 9> ("fear" buffs) . See ludism, amish.

tecnología

It is the branch of science that applies knowledge in a practical and methodical way. It is formed with the Greek voices 964; 949; 967; 957; 951; (techne "art") 955; 959; 947; 953; 945; (lodge "knowledge") .

tecnología de la información

Known by its acronym TI is the use of computer science and communication systems to process data in education, business and Governments.

tecnológico hegemónico

See technological, hegemonic .

tefilín

Tefillin are passages from the Old Testament (usually Exodus and Deuteronomy) written in principle on parchment and placed inside small boxes with straps that Jewish males tie to their arm and head by religious precept. The Hebrew name is 1514; 1508; 1497; 1500; 1497; 1503; 8206; (Tfilin), although outside Judaism its Christian version "phylactery" is more popular.

tegantai

1º_ It is the name of an Amazonian butterfly in Huaorani language. 2º_ Tegantai is an environmental news agency in Ecuador.

tehuelche

Name that brings together the indigenous Patagonian and southern ethnic groups of the Pampean region in South America. It can have Mapuche origin as chewel ("arisco , yermo") che ("people").

tehuelches

Plural of tehuelche .

teibolear

It is a verb created from the Spanglish teibolera , to define precisely what it does: table dance (pr . Taibol Dans), an erotic dance on a stage or bar to entertain the patrons of a nightclub or similar place.

teja

1º_ Kind of brick, flatter and ribbed, to cover roofs. 2º_ For the previous one, several objects with a similar shape or use, from a biscuit to a hat. It is also said of its brownish or reddish color, typical of baked clay. 3º_ Another of the common names of the plant Tilia platyphyllos. 4º_ Inflection of the verbs tejar and tejer . See verbs/tile .

teja tey

See tile, tey, and also linden (plant) where they are as synonyms poorly separated by a dot, which caused another useless entry in the dictionary.

tejaván

It is a reduction of "vain tile" for the "rustic roof, without roof or ceiling" and for the house so roofed.

tejeduría

1º_ Handicrafts and textile industry, manufacture of fabrics. 2º_ Place where fabrics, carpets, warp in general are produced. See weaving, weaving, suffix -ía.

tejeria

It may be a mistake by weaving ("weaving, roof"), the feminine of weaving, verbs/weaving, verbs/fear, verbs/tajearía, . . .

tejería

1º_ Roof, tile roof. 2º_ Tejar, factory of tiles and bricks. 3º_ In some places it is weaving, textile factory or hand-weaving production. 4º_ Inflection of the verb to weave. See verbs/weaver .

tejido oseo

Is that when I scare the sparrows with a rag? See tissue, bone, ossear.

tejobarondillo

It must be a mistake for Barondillo's yew ("thousand-year-old tree in Spain").

tela

1o_ Fabric usually of textile origin, although the term is used for anyone with similar characteristics, whether synthetic or wire; even for animal networks such as spider web. It comes from the Latin fabric, ae, originated in the verb texere ("woven, braided")). 2nd_ In lunfardo it is "money, fortune", perhaps a dissimilation by teca.

tela de seda sin brillo

See fabric, silk, glitter, gro .

tela velveteen

He is not Spanish. The translation is " 34 corduroy fabric; similar to velvet.

telacafé

I do not know if it lacks a space and refers to a brown fabric, if it lacks words for a "cloth coffee filter", or they missed a letter and refers to the Colombian television channel "Telecafé".

tele-

Prefix of Greek origin for "something remote, far from a certain place". of 964; 951; 955; 949; (TV "away") .

telecafé

Telecafé is the name of a Colombian television channel owned by Televisión Regional del Eje Cafetero .

telefonear

Make a phone call.

telefono

1º_ Phone call, use of the phone for a voice communication. 2º_ First (as 'I') person in singular of the present of the indicative mode for the verb telefonar . See verbs/phone.

telemedicina

It is a form of "remote medicine", it can be from an internet consultation to an operation where the patient is in the operating room with a surgical robot and the surgeon in another hospital managing the robot that physically does the intervention.

teleno

Teleno is the name of a Spanish mountain in the Galaico-Leonés massif. It has a height of 2188 meters above sea level.

telescopio

Optical instrument that allows to zoom in on the apparent distance of what is too far away to be seen with the naked eye. It is especially said of the one used to observe celestial bodies. The name is formed from the Greek voices 964; 951; 955; 949; (TV "away") 963; 954; 959; 9< 949; 953; 957; (scopein "observe") .

teletransportación

It is said that the remote transport of an object (not its copy or facsimile) without a physical means of transfer. At the moment it's experimental, and it's only seen working in science fiction. It consists of the Greek prefix tele- ("far") the Latin lexical component trans ("on the other side, through") port ("take action, move something") .

televisión

System of distribution of images (and sound) that in principle was an equivalent to the system of commercial radio broadcasting, but also as visual. This is also the name given to the receiver, although "television" is preferred. It is formed by the prefix tele- ("from afar") vision ("ability to see"). Watch tevé, TV, silly box.

televisor inteligente

It is the Spanish version of the English smart tv.

teléfono

Communication device, which originally transmitted and received voice over a fixed network of cables, although it later evolved into radio and satellite connections, and to voice added text, data and image. The name has Greek etymology by 964; 951; 955; 949; ("far") 966; 969; 957; 959; 9> ("sound") . See belio .

telgopor

Trademark of expanded polystyrene in Argentina, from the company Hulytego.

telmex

TELMEX is the trade name of the company Teléfonos de México, S. To. B . of C . V . which markets IT and telecommunications services. It has its origin in the late 1940s with the purchase of the Mexican Ericsson and ITT Corporation by a local consortium.

telo

Lunfardo is the 34 vesre; hotel " Although it takes a their own meaning, since it is only used to nominate hotels per hour, which use the couples to have a comfortable and quiet place where sexual intimacy.

tema peligroso

It is not a locution, it does not even reach a phrase made. See topic ("subject") , dangerous ("that carries some risk") .

tememe

Pronominal form for an inflection of the verb to fear. See verbs/temé .

temesis

It looks like a more natural pronunciation for tmesis (lexical cannibalization), or an error by Támesis, nemesis, genesis, . . . and some trademark that you're not going to deprive yourself of mentioning here.

temoroso

Error by fearful, nemorous, tumory , . . .

temperatura

Heat in bodies, liquids and gases. Also the degree of heat in the environment. See kelvin , K , degree fahrenheit , °F , degree celsius , °C .

temporal

Relating to weather, climate or chronological sense.

tenacidad

Quality of tenacious ("who puts constancy or effort in any task") . It comes from the Latin tenacitas, atis, which is related to tenax, acis ("who holds something tightly and does not let go").

tenacidad-obstinación

They are two words: tenacity and stubbornness. The script would be left over.

tenazonas

It's a plural, but I'm not sure what. Perhaps it's because of the augmentative of pincer ("tweezer-like tool"), or because of some feminine version of tenazón ("quick, improvised, and untidy act") used as an adjective, or because of a feminine augmentative of the tenacious adjective ("firm, resilient").

tendencia irascible

It is not a locution, and is interpreted according to trend (propensity) and irascible (with anger).

tendinopatía de aquiles

Achilles tendon disease, usually an over-exigency inflammation in workouts, also called "herelea tendinitis".

teneis

Error by verbs/you have .

tenencia responsable

Of course, it refers to any possession, use, maintenance that must be done with responsibility (weapons, children, psychopharmaceuticals, . . .) . It is perfectly understood from tenure and responsible.

tener a pan y mantel

Another version of having bread and tablecloths, bread and tablecloths, bread and tablecloth, bread and knife bread and tablecloths.

tener alegría

It's set like an anonymity in. . . 'being down'.

tener amor propio

See have, "self-love".

tener buenos modales

See have, good manners.

tener cojones

It is understood by having and cojones ("plural of cojón") in its sense of "value, manhood", which for this case the most common is to use it as well in the plural.

tener cuerda para rato

That it can be maintained in activity for much longer, which can live much longer. The analogy comes from toys, watches or any artifact " string " that were made to operate tensioning an inner spiral spring through a rotating key outside, but originally Mills who initiated the movement by pulling a cord coiling spiral of steel, is the wind triggering any mechanism, and recovering the rope that had taken out; When the rope ended to the movement is halted.

tener dolor de ánimo

He came here because they put him in the synonym of. . . 'remorse of conscience'. See have, pain, encouragement.

tener don

Misinterpretation of the concept of synonym, this time to be a crack (which in principle would not be a dictionary entry either, but it turns out that it is the only way it is used, so it happens as a locution).

tener el palito

It is a locution where "the stick" would be a baton or a magic wand, and refers to someone who directs an execution, a task, or who has the solution to a problem, or even both cases for knowing how to do something and guide those who must do it.

tener estómago

It is actually a reduction of phrases like "having a resistant stomach", and is said by the ability and tolerance to perform tasks that produce disgust, rejection, which are unpleasant to the point (often exaggerated) of causing vomiting in an ordinary person. It can also be a fragment of other locutions, such as p . e.g. . "having a vulture stomach".

tener fuerza

She got this far because they put her synonymous with being a crack. See have, strength.

tener ganas de trabajar

See feel, like, work.

tener huevo

1· It is vulgar " having courage " be very male. In this case, the egg is the testicle. 2· Have a zero grade.

tener la bondad

It is not a locution, and is understood according to having and kindness.

tener la cabeza en las nubes

It is an expression to qualify someone unrealistic, who lives in his fantasies, who "has his head away from the earth". Which is not always considered bad, but also a condition for "creative thinking". See nefelibata .

tener las de perder

It seems like a variant of "losing". You can also see "have someone to lose", "have someone something to lose", "have someone much to lose", as they are published in the dictionary.

tener las piernas en la tierra

It can be a troll for the "have your feet on the ground" locution, or your knees, or maybe "put knee to ground". See by similarity made by arm.

tener los ojos como platos

This locution is the definition of ojiplático, for "eyes of amazement, open and round like two plates". And there is another similar one in 'having the eyes as a dish'.

tener los pies en el suelo

It looks like a variant of "having your feet on the ground". You can also see "grounding", "kneeling on the ground".

tener los pies en la tierra

Be firm and settled in any circumstance, without relying on assumptions, dreams, luck, . . . See "having your head in the clouds" , also "walk the clouds", even if there is a small error in the query.

tener lucas

See luca.

tener mas vida que un gato

It should be "having more lives than a cat", which may be a comment, but I don't know if it comes to locution. See another dubious entry as having more souls than a cat; have seven souls like cat like a cat, and since we are also more,

more, life, cat.

tener mucha cuerda

In addition to its literal meaning, it is another version of "having rope for a while". See a lot, rope, time.

tener onda con alguien

See wave.

tener palanca

It seems like a locution, but in reality lever is already incorporated into the Spanish dictionary as "powerful intercession or influence that is employed to achieve some end", so it is perfectly understood. See have .

tener pelos en la lengua

Do not say something out of shame, fear, education, any reason that represses a comment and compares it to hairs that make it difficult to speak. Its negative form is used more as "not having hairs on the tongue". See also "no hair on the tongue", "no hair on the tongue", "doctor/glossophytic .

tener rabo de paja

It's another version of the phrase "having a straw tail." See straw tail .

tener sus conchas como cada quisque

Here we can have a difference depending on the source of the query. I have my doubts about whether it's really a locution, but not to make the day sour we're going to assume yes. The 'every quisque' thing is for "every person, every one"; but the thing about 'having your shells' in America (Mexico, Peru, Ecuador, Colombia) is "having shamelessness, boldness to behave", while in Spain it is "to have someone their reservations, to be disguised, to act cunningly". I think we're dealing with this last case.

tener un estómago de buitre

This locution is interpreted as "eat a lot, be gluttonous", although the original reference is for "eating everything, even rotten meat like the vulture, and not getting sick".

tener un ojo a la virolé

Actually, the phrase would be "to have an eye on the virulé", although it could also have some relation to the virolo variant. See virulé , virol ("ferrule").

tener un siete en la ropa

The truth is that it seems , but does not become locution . In this case 'seven' is by the meaning of "tearing on a fabric shaped like an angle", which looks like a "7" .

tener un toque dorado

There is a Greek myth where the King Midas de Frigia (6th century BC.) He is the protagonist. Surely by the enormous wealth accumulated during his reign, created history where Dionysus gave the gift of turning everything he touched into gold, but the problem appeared when she wanted to eat, and food also went gold. To not die of hunger, he asked that the gift you was removed, what happened after going to Lidia to bathe in the river Pactolo (that explains also why in its surroundings is a large gold deposit). " Have a golden touch, " It can refer to who makes good business, that all endeavours are successful and increase your fortune, as an allusion to the legend of Midas.

tengañé

1º_ Species of miriñaque that women used until the nineteenth century to extend the flight of their skirts. 2º_ Load or flange of material that in the constructions prolong the wall, it can also be a window sill or a step or door poyete. In these cases it would be an Andalusianism.

tengo una lija

It's a hunger-related lunfardo expression. And with that data plus a look to have and sand, it is understood.

tenochticlan

Although I've seen it that way written, it's actually tenochtitlán.

tenochtitlán

Capital city of the Aztec Empire, until its fall at the hands of an alliance between indigenous and Spanish. Although there is no complete agreement on its etymology, in Nahuatl it seems to be an eponymous : "The Place of Ténoch" (which was a Mexican Tlatoani). It is also called Tenochtitlan, Tenuchtitlán, Tenustitlán or Theonustitlán.

tente en pie

It's actually already lexicalized as a snack.

tentenpie

Snack error .

tentepié

1º_ It is a variant of snack as a toy and as food. 2º_ Step or stirrup on the side of a vehicle.

teofanía

Appearance of a divinity before men. It has Greek origin: 952; 949; 959; 9> (theos "god") 966; 945; 957; 949; 953; 957; (fanein "appear") . [Note: in the definition of colleague Danilo Enrique Noreña Benítez there is a confusion with the neologism theophony, which while it may also be a theophany, only refers to the singing, to the voice, to the heard word of a deity.]

teofonía

It may be a type of theophany, although it only refers to singing, to the voice, to the heard word of a deity. It is practically a neologism for these cases, and is taken from the Greek 952; 949; 959; 9> (theos "god") 966; 969; 957; 951; (fooné "voice, sound, speech") .

teología homérica

I suppose you can say something about the homeric theology, but of 100<theology 100<homérica only that is misspelled . See theology, homer, Homer.

teorías fundamentales

It doesn't come to the locution, and it's here because they put it in supposed synonym for theoretical framework. See theory, fundamental.

teórico

Relative to the theory . It is also said of the person who studies or applies it.

tepalcates

1º_ River in Guanajuato (Mexico) . 2º_ Plural of tepalcate ("mexicanismo por tiesto") .

terapia alternativa

It should be understood by therapy ("clinical treatment") and alternative ("optional to the accepted traditional model"); but it turns out that when it comes to medicine or health-related issues began to be called 'alternative therapy' to supposed pseudoscientific methods of healing, if not overtly esoteric, which pretend to be a valid option to heal some ailment, and are nothing more than a scam with high risks for the patient. See pseudomedicine, pseudoscience, pseudotherapy.

terapia chromoson

I suppose it's not spam, because it's clear to everyone that a medical or psychological treatment based on the vibration of colors and sounds is a.

terato

Lexical component of Greek origin for "monstrous, deformed". It comes from 964; 949; 961; 945; 964; 959; 9> (teratos "monster, prodigy") .

teratogeno

Teratogen error. See teratogenic .

teratogénesis

Case of foetal malformation due to a contaminating agent on the embryo. It has Greek etymology by 964; 949; 961; 945; 964; 959; 9> (Teratos "Of The Monster") 947; 949; 957; 949; 963; 953; 9> (guénesis "generation, origin") .

teratogénica

Female teratogenic.

tercero

In an ordered group, the element occupying the number 3 place. See third. 2nd_ A third, each part of a whole divided by 3. 3º_ In a matter between two persons or entities, it is said of whom it should be added for some reason, p . e.g. as a mediator, as a victim or as a pimp of love relationships. See tertiary .

terceros

Plural of third .

terciar

1º_ To do or have something related to the number of 3. It is said to do three tasks, to reach three periods, to incorporate a third element, to divide into thirds. . . There are specific cases of the previous meaning, such as diluting and adulterating a wine with a third of water, or mediating a dispute between two (such as a third, although this number may be more flexible), or interpretations of the latter such as "joining a conversation", "balancing a weight or burden", "completing a number of people", . . . 3°_ To cross something, to put it cross, cross, or diagonally.

terciar por alguien

It's "tertiar for someone", precisely. Even if it's not a third party in the discussion, because there are more than two people.

tereftalato de polietileno

Type of polymer mainly used for beverage containers (for their resistance to pressure and temperature) and textiles (porllar). It is abbreviated as PET (Polyethylene Terephthalate). See plastic pet1 pet2 pet3 pet4 pet5 (yes, yes, I know; but there appear some more data because - as usual - someone put them where they should not).

teresiar

I think teresiar is in the wrong dictionary; or perhaps it is an error by Teresita, tertiar, taracear, pericate, perish, perish, . . . See Basque/Teresiar .

teriantropía

Relating to the study or characteristics of a being with part human and partly animal appearance, which may be its normal condition or, as in the case of theriomorphism, voluntarily or involuntarily become between one or the other. These entities are mentioned in myths and religions, or in psychiatry when someone believes themselves to be an animal, but in reality they could only be created with genetic engineering. It is a voice of Greek components : 952; 951; 961; 953; 959; 957; (therion "beast, wild animal") related to 964; 949; 961; 945; 9> (teras "monster") , 945; 957; 952; 961; 969; 9< 959; 9> (anthropos "man, human") , and the suffix - 953; 945; (-ía "action, quality") . See cryptozoology.

teriomorfismo

Theriomorphism is the supposed ability to become between animal and human (totally or partially), which appears in myths and legends, but also in shamanism, where not physical characteristics are acquired but animal abilities. The word has Greek origins by 952; 951; 961; 953; 959; 957; (therion "beast, wild animal") 956; 959; 961; 966; 951; (morphe "figure, form") the suffix -ism . See anthropomorphism, therianthropy, lycanthrope, vampire.

terminarse

Pronominal form of the verb end .

terminos excluidos

See term , excluded .

termo-

Suffix for "temperature, heat" . From the Greek 952; 949; 961; 956; 959; (thermo "warm") .

termo-

Prefix for "temperature, heat" . From the Greek 952; 949; 961; 956; 959; (thermo "warm") .

termoclastia

It is a process in which sudden changes in ambient temperature break down rocks that dilate with the heat of the day and contract with the cold of the night. From the Greek 952; 949; 961; 956; 959; 9> (thermós "hot, temperature") 954; 955; 945; 963; 964; 959; 9> (klastós "broken, broken") . See cryoclastia, hydroclastia, haloclastia.

termoclastia - crioclastia

They are the words thermoclastia and cryoclastia separated with a hyphen.

termoconformación

It is another, longer, form for thermoforming ("molding a plastic material with heat into a mold"). See polyethylene terephthalate .

termoenergético

Relating to the generation or consumption of energy associated with temperature . See thermo-, energy, energy, -ico.

termoventilación

Heating system by forced circulation of hot air. It consists of the Greek prefix thermo- , by 952; 949; 961; 956; 959; 9> (thermós "heat, temperature"), and Latin ventilare ("ventilate").

terna

1st_ Group of 3; especially from persons who are running for office or award from which one must be chosen. It comes from the Latin ternus, a, um ("of three"). 2º_ Width of cloth, even if it has more than 3 pieces sewn together.

terpsichore

It's actually just the asteroid, because the muse in Spanish is called Terpsichore.

terrazza

1º_ Open site built with a view to the outside, can be on the roof of a building, on an attached esplanade, on a sidewalk (usually of bars or hotels, for the use of outdoor customers), . . . From the Latin terraceus ("of earth") . 2º_ By the previous one, the steps or flat protrusions in mountains or walls that serve for cultivation or to exhibit ornamental plants. 3º_ Type of jar, similar to a terrazzo, but with two handles. See amphora.

terrazo

1º_ Esplanade, pavement on a land made of cement and pebble, or pieces of polished marble. From the Latin terraceus ("of earth, terraced"). See terrace . 2º_ For the previous one, tile made with pieces of calcareous stone or marble, agglomerated with mortar, which is used for floor covering and also walls. Terrazzo Italianism is also used. 3º_ In visual arts it is a landscape that shows a wide terrain. 4º_ Jar or cup with a handle. See mug .

terremblor

Either it's a terratemblor error (of the dubbed version of an anime), or it's a pun to join earthquake shaking.

terreno demarcado

See terrain, demarcated, amojonado (with milestones or beacons), white line (in sports fields).

terretenientes

It's probably a mistake for landlords. See landowner.

territorio intercultural

See: territory, intercultural.

terrón de azúcar

It's a serving of sugar in the form of a solid dice, an equivalent of "a teaspoon." Until the 19th century, sugar was marketed in the form of solid bars and the portions were cut to be served on trays or bowls along with tea or coffee, but the Swiss Jacob Christoph Rad came up with the idea of selling it already fractionated into small cubes of about 15 mm on a side, so he began production at his plant in Bohemia, which then belonged to the Austro-Hungarian Empire and today is Czechia. The first clods were dyed with a red vegetable dye, and legend has it that it was a tribute to Rad's wife, who when she hurt herself with a knife breaking a sweet bar, was the one who inspired the idea of selling it pre-cut.

test

It is a word incorporated into Spanish from English with the same meaning of "test, exam". However the origin is Old French, where teste was the name of a clay vessel used by goldsmiths to test the quality of gold and other precious metals, which comes from the Latin testum, i ("pot or pot of baked clay").

test de alcoholemia

See test, breathalyzer.

test de turing

It's another way of calling the Turing test. See test .

test pcr

View test , pcr (also by RT-PCR) .

testa

1º_ Head, skull . From the late Latin testa ("skull", for the "cover"). 2º_ Stone, hard cover of the seed. It is taken from the low Latin testa, ae which was "shell" ("leaflet") and by similarity, "clay tile". 3º_ Inflection of the verb testar . See verbs/testa .

testud

It looks like a mistake by testuz ("top of the head of some animals"), Testut ("anatomy book") or perhaps stubborn ("fool").

testut

It is a generic name for anatomy books based on the most popular work of French professor and physician Jean Léo Testut Traité d'anatomie humaine ("Treatise on Human Anatomy", 1887).

tetas

Plural of teta.

tetazo

blow. It is used more figuratively; by the impression that militants make of feminist movements by making public claims in topes, or even for every time a baby is breastfed. See corpiñazo .

tetera

1°_ Container to prepare and serve the tea infusion. See coffee maker, chocolate maker. 2°_ Teat of the bottle or bottle. 3°_ In a jocular and somewhat vulgar way, it is a way of calling the soutien (female bra), because it covers the tits. See bodice . 4°_ In some cities of Argentina is called teapot to the place of public access, although not to the general view, where gays are to practice casual sex. It is said that the name comes from the faience mengitories, reminiscent of the porcelain vessel for serving tea, since these places of sexual encounter were usually a men's bathroom in shopping malls, cinemas, and especially those built in parks or public walkways.

tetería

Neologism of questionable construction for a local sale of tea (to prepare it or as an infusion to drink) . Obviously it is an analogy with cafeteria, but here the difference is that the Coffeae plants are known as "coffee trees", but the Theeae were never called "tetos", so 'teahouse' seems more related to the teapot (in any of its meanings) that it would be a word from Spanish.

tetona

busty is incorrectly written and it should be written as Teutonic being its meaning: feminine of teuton.

tetra

1°_ It is a lexical component taken from the Greek 964; 949; 964; 961; 945; which means "four". 2°_ Colloquial apocope of words that have it as a prefix; the most common is perhaps for tetrabrik packaging (Tetra Brik® brand), especially if it contains wine.

tetrabrik

It is a popular name for the Tetra Brik® brand of disposable cartons, used primarily for liquids. 'Tetra' is for 964; 949; 964; 961; 945; (tetra "four") in Greek since previously the Tetra Pak company manufactured tetrahedron-shaped containers (with four triangular faces), to then improve the design and give it a cube or brick shape, which is written brick in English and for the brand was simplified into 'brik'.

tetradimensional

It has four spatial dimensions. From Greek 964; 949; 964; 961; 945; 9> (tetras) , derived from 964; 949; 963; 963; 945; 961; 949; 9> (tessars "four") , the Latin dimensio , onis ("measurement in a space") and the suffix -al . See tesseract, hypercube.

tetragrámaton

Par excellence, the name of God (for the consonants YHWH), "4 letters". It comes from the Greek 964; 949; 964; 961; 945; (tetra, "four") and 947; 961; 945; 956; 956; 945; 964; 949; 953; 959; 957; (grammateion, "writing"); even if you don't have a reference in the Greek manuscripts of the Judeo-Christian holy books.

tetratología

I saw it posted lots of times (so, even without accent!) , but it's tetralogy. Even if it is out of context, it can become a teratology error.

tevé

It is a summarized form of "television", by its abbreviation "TV" in Spanish. See t , v .

tey

Another of the common plant names is Tilia platyphyllos.

té

1º_ Tea is the common name of the Camellia sinensis plant. As its name implies, it has Chinese origin, where it is called 茶; , which is pronounced as 'cha', but in some southern regions that sinogram is read 'te', which is the form that came to Spanish, and was accentuated to distinguish it from the pronominal "te". 2º_ By the previous one (or perhaps vice versa), it is called 'tea' to the infusion prepared with its leaves, to those same toasted leaves to make the drink and to the meeting where it is traditionally drunk. 3º_ By extension, any beverage made with vegetable leaves prepared as tea.

técnica

1º_ Resource, method, organized system to perform a task. 2º_ Female technician.

técnica manipulativa

See technique ("method, organized system"), manipulative ("operating with hands").

técnico

Relating to the technique, who exercises it as a trade, in a work or study.

témeme

Pronominal form for an inflection of the verb temer . See verbs/fear, me (pronoun) .

térmico

Relative to the temperature, which maintains or generates it. See thermos- , -ico .

término

1st_ End point or limit, even if it is not absolute but of each ordered part of a total. 2o_ Each understandable unit, such as a figure or word. 3o_ Border or confine, also its demarcation or signage . 4th_ Each proposition of a syllogism, of a sentence, . . . 5th_ Roman God of boundaries and borders, also his figure of a human head on a column or milestone.

términos

Plural term .

tésen

It must be a mistake for "tea sen" or "sen tea". Better to see sen, tea.

tête à tête

French expression that means head with head, which in Spanish is face to face, face to face.

thc

1°_ Acronym for the "delta-9-tetrahydrocannabinol", a substance found in the leaves and shoots of the Cannabis sativa plant and is the psychoactive component of marijuana and hashish used as recreational drugs, although it is also a chemical stimulant of the nervous system in medical treatments. See CBD, cannabis, cannabis. 2nd_ 'THC' is the IATA airport code for the city of Zwedru, in Tchien District (Grand Gedeh County, Liberia).

the human league

'The Human League' is the name of a synth pop band formed in the United Kingdom in 1977. It is taken from the game Starforce: Alpha Centauri set in the XXV century, where "the Human League" is a group that rebels on a distant planet to the central government of Earth.

the rolling stones

English rock band (originating from London) formed in 1962. Since the rhythm blues and soul of their beginnings have gone through rock and roll, country, reggae and dance music among other rhythms. With changes of musicians and their solo periods, the band remained active since their formation. The name comes from the song "Rollin' Stone" (Muddy Waters, 1948), not as a tribute but because a journalist telephonically rushed Brian Jones (the founder of the band) asking what the group was called, and he saw Waters' simple with that theme lying on the floor and said 'Rolling Stones'.

the wailers

The Wailers is a reggae band led by Bob Marley, and is considered to be the main disseminator of Rastafarian culture worldwide. Its name is taken from the nickname of one of its founders, Jamaican singer and percussionist Neville O'Riley Livingston, known as Bunny Wailer ("bunny cry"?).

the who

The Who is a London rock and mod band that has existed under that name since 1964, although it used others before and after, also with other formations. They are one of the most influential bands in terms of style for British rockers. The name means "The Who" and was proposed by Richard Barnes, an art school classmate of guitarist Pete Townshend, when they learned that the name The Detours they used until then already had another band. In 1965, and with an album already released, they received a demand from the Guess Who to change it again; But when they had enough, they literally sent them to hell.

theo

It is a hypocoristic for foreign names that begin with Theo- , which in English would be Teo- . Some variants, such as the French Théo (tjeó) are used as a given name. Depending on each case, the origin may be Greek by 952; 949; 959; 9> (teós "god, of God"), Germanic for þeud (zeud "people, people"), or even Nahuatl for te 333; ("divinity of heaven").

thompson twins

The Thompson Twins were a British new wave pop band formed in 1977. The name is a tribute to the Dupondts, two characters from the Belgian comic strip Les Aventures de Tintin et Milou ("The Adventures of Tintin", Hergé, 1930) who were rather inept and almost identical police inspectors, although they did not really appear to be brothers. In the original French they were called Dupont et Dupond, but in the English version they were renamed Thomson and Thompson, which was what inspired the band's name.

ti

Acronym for the information technology.

tibia

To the definitions already published, I add those of "feminine of lukewarm" and "inflection of the verb tiliar". See verbs/tibia .

tienda de mascotas

Obviously it is a trade or store where accessories for pets are found. In some cases they also sell animals as pets, and they also have a veterinarian or "veterinary office."

tiene ardiles

See have and ardil, a vulgarization of ruse as "skill, cunning, skill".

tierra

1o_ Natural floor, and material from which it is composed . 2o_ Capitalised is the name of the planet we inhabit.

tierra del fuego

Argentine province whose full name is province of Tierra del Fuego, Antarctica and South Atlantic Islands. It is located on the big island of Tierra del Fuego. The name comes from the bonfires made by Indians, who saw sailors on coastlines believing that they were natural.

tierra del fuego

Name so I knew to an area of the city of Buenos Aires, in the vicinity of the prison of Las Heras (today already demolished) between the neighborhoods of Palermo and Recoleta. It was an allusion to the prison of Ushuaia, in Tierra del Fuego, which was famous for its high security.

tierra del fuego, antártida e islas del atlántico sur

Name of a province in Argentina . The province of Tierra del Fuego, Antarctica and South Atlantic Islands is the southernmost province of Argentina.

tieso

1º_ Hard, rigid, tight. From the Latin tensus, with the same meaning. 2º_ Shares the figurative meaning of its synonyms such as "dead", "penniless", "stubborn", "perplexed", . . .

tifi

In Creol it means "girl", but I have no news that besides Haiti is used in Latin America.

tiflografía

Any writing system for the blind. From the Greek 964; 965; 966; 955; 959; 9> ("blind" typuffs) 947; 961; 945; 966; 949; 953; 957; (grafein "write") . See tiflotechnology, braille.

tiflotecnología

It is the developed technology to help blind people. Greek 964; 965; 966; 955; 959; 9> (tyflos, "blind"), 964; 949; 967; 957; 951; (tekhne, "art, technical") and 955; 959; 947; 959; 9> (logos, "study, Treaty, knowledge")

tigre

City of the province of Buenos Aires (Argentina) in the Paraná delta. Formerly known as the payment of the shells, then officially took the name of the Brook of the Tiger (place where at the end he was hunted a yaguareté or American Tiger attacking the houses in the area).

tigrero

Lunfardo is an employee who cleans bathrooms public, before much more numerous now. The dirt and the smell of these services compared with cage of tiger in zoos, and that association with those who cleaned them, which were were called tigreros. By extension, the driver of the atmospheric trucks. Also called so people live poorly, thugs and handsome.

tijeras

It is a plural noun that is also used for a single scissor object, due to its characteristic of having two equal or symmetrical parts. See pants, glasses, inherent plural.

tijereta

1°_ Scissor derogatory ("cutting tool") . 2°_ Tendrils that come out paired in the vine plants. 3°_ It is one of the common names of the South American bird Tyrannus savana. 4°_ The common earwig or Forficula auricularia is an insect of the order Dermaptera whose abdomen ends in two appendages or fences similar to tongs or scissors. 5°_ Lesbian sexual practice where the shape of the scissors is alluded to by the position of the legs. See fricatriz, also safism.

tilar

It is another of the common names of the plant Tilia platyphyllos.

tilaran

It seems a mistake for some verbal inflection, such as verbs/tillaran, verbs/hilaran, verbs/tildaran, but most likely it lacks an accent to be Tilarán (Costa Rican canton).

tilarán

Cordillera, district and canton in the province of Guanacaste (Costa Rica) . [Note: the verb tilar does not exist as such, but as JOHN says the Spanish does recognize tillar ("to establish a floor") beyond its nautical origin of Latin (or French, or Germanic) etymology.]

tildar

Put tilde, point out the most important data with a brand, qualify for something or someone with a feature.

tilde diacritica

See tilde , diacritic .

tilde o acento

See tilde , accent.

tilingo

1°_ The adjective 'tilingo' is used in lunfardo, but has spread beyond the Río de la Plata. It is a way of qualifying the subject "vulgar but presumptuous, with pretensions of superior social class, hollow and affected", in some regions he became "silly, crazy". It probably derives from the voice "tilín" ("minimal, bland, but striking like the tinkling of the bells").

See wannabe . 2º_ It is one of the common names for the bird Crotophaga sulcirostris, surely a deformation of "talingo", influenced by the previous one.

tillera

Another of the common plant names is Tilia platyphyllos.

timba

It could be a fruit shaped ear of timbó, but I never heard to be called so. Safe is a Cuban son of strong dance rhythm. The meaning proposed by Jorge Luis Tovar Díaz is a feminization (and singling out) timbós. Although it seems to me that the meaning you are looking for is the game for money; with one source more assumed that safe, since it is a Spanish pre-Romanesque germania, a possible derivative of timpa (monte, loma) in several dialects, which eventually named the game of cards of the mount, and there must have expanded all game as Lottery Roulette, racing, provided that you can bet.

timbo

Lunfardo uses as plural timbós. See also timbo.

timbos

Although it is a lunfardo voice that is almost always used in the plural, to clarify that it comes from timbo which is a loot vesre, a shoe in sports principle, but that later was extended to any pair of shoes (that is used in the plural).

time

1º_ Time is a small village in Pike County, Illinois, USA. 2º_ Inflection of the verb timar . See verbs/time .

tinago

Tinago is the name of a waterfall in the city of Iligan, on Mindanao Island (Philippines). In local language it means "hidden".

tinamu

It could refer to an ancient population in the province of Kermanshah (Iran), but it is surely a mistake by the American tinamou bird, which is a name for several of the class Tinamidae. See partridge.

tinamú

Name for several birds of the class Tinamidae. See partridge .

tinamú común

It is another common name for the inambú bird (Nothura maculosa).

tinamú manchado

It is another common name for the inambú bird (Nothura maculosa).

tincreta

Surely a tincleta dissimilation (word closer to ratchet?) , which is one of the many names for the insect Forficula auricularia.

tindalo

In English it is a mistake for tindalus ("Intsia acuminata tree"), Tyndar ("mythical king of Sparta") or Tyndalus dog ("for fictional characters inspired by the Cthulhu Mythos").

tinnitus

Latin tinnitus name. It means jingle, bell.

tio

If it is not an error per uncle, it must be a lexical component usually used in chemistry to name sulfur, which comes from Greek 952; 949; 953; 959; 957; (theíon) with the same meaning.

tiocetona

It is a ketone, an organic compound, whose most prominent feature is its unbearable odor. It comes from The Greek 952; 949; 953; 959; 957; (theíon "sulfur") the German ketone ("acetone") .

tiol

Chemical compound formed by hydrogen and sulfur, and for the latter has an unpleasant smell. See mercaptan .

tiplista

Player of timple or tiple musical instruments, such as the small, high-pitched guitar or the soprano oboe.

tipludo

It looks ugly, but it can be an adjective for someone with a tiple (high register) voice. Maybe any high-pitched sound.

tipo

1o_ Mode , class , variant of a case . It is also understood as the determining model, as the reference for its peers. 2nd_ Indeterminate Person or Subject; if you're talking about someone then it's a way to mention them without saying the name. 3o_ In print is each of the molds with an embossed character to mark it with ink on the paper. 4th_ Taxonomic group, subdivided into classes . A similar term was used in programming for types or data class typing.

tipografia

typography is incorrectly written, and should be written as "typography" being its meaning:
Technique of using moulds or types for print letters. Also the collection of designs of characters. Greek 964; 965; 9< 959; 9> (typos, " brand of pressure or footprint ") and 947; 961; 945; 966; 951; (grafe, " 34 engraving;).

tipos

Plural of type , in any of its meanings .

tiqui taca

Also called " Tiki-Taka " or " Tronadora " it is a skill toy with two spheres tied to a string, equidistant to the ring that serves to hold them with one hand. It makes them is hit and bounce between them repeatedly with a back and forth motion, using centrifugal force. In slang, is a form of name to the testicles.

tiquicia

It is an informal place-name, with a friendly origin. It is the name given to Costa Rica because of this custom of Costa Ricans (shared by other Caribbean peoples) to use the words in a affectionate diminutive with the suffix -tico (or -tica), so they are also known as penthouses.

tiraflechas

I add to the definitions given that in the Caribbean, especially in Cuba, it is another name for the slingshot, slingshot or slingshot.

tirailleur

It is a French word that translates as "shooter, sniper". It was the name for a Gallic army advanced soldier, usually from his African colonies, during the 20th century. In addition to the classic Senegalese tirailleurs, there were also Algerians, Moroccans, Tunisians and even Vietnamese. The origin is in the marksmen of the avant-garde of the Napoleonic army, who fired badly, into the tuntún; and it's a puller variant that comes from tir ("shot, shot").

tirante

It is said of what is in tension, it can refer to the straps of the cavalry, to the elastics that hold the pants from the shoulders, to the wooden or metal beams that support the tension of a construction, or figuratively to a relationship with risk of breaking.

tirantes

Plural of braces (various meanings) .

tiranuelo coronado

It is another common name for some birds such as Poecilotriccus ruficeps or Tyrannulus elatus .

tirapi

It is surely a trolling by tirapié. (Because this is not a Marathi dictionary to go around defining in that language a word that in Spanish is not used.)

tirar cohetes

I suppose it may make different sense depending on the context, but the expression is often used as an example of celebration, of joy for something. The rockets in this case are pyrotechnics.

tirar con pólvora del rey

In this case the "throw" is for "shooting", and the phrase refers to the fact of "waste, waste goods that are not their own". There are several anecdotes as the origin of this locution but most mention the fact of Spanish Tercios soldiers saving ammunition and gunpowder in a siege until they capture the enemy powder keg, and already with the supply covered by "the king's gunpowder" (which they did not pay) the arquebusiers did not skimp on the amount of shots.

tirar de la manga

It is an expression by "ask, request something of value (usually money)". He makes an analogy with the boys who insistently pull their sleeves on their parents' clothes to get their attention and ask for something; or with beggars who do the same when they beg at the door of churches. See manguear .

tirar la cadena

1º_ Beyond its literal meaning, it is used with a specific sense by the chain that activated the old toilet flushes, which leads to the figurative sense "definitively get rid of what no longer serves", how excrement is eliminated. See "push the button" . 2º_ Another figurative use is to "leave someone with little room for maneuver, keep him tackled or controlled", associating the chain with the leash or the pretal that holds the beasts or attack dogs. This phrase appears more like "pulling him off the chain".

tirar la chancleta

Give a woman a dissipated life, or commit an act morally (sexually) unexpectedly for your environment reprehensible. The origin was in the brothels, where the women threw one of his slippers (or shoe or slipper) at the door of the room where attending a client to warn that it was occupied.

tirar la goma

Another colloquial way to say "have a sexual relationship."

tirar la talla

pull size is incorrectly written and it should be written as "throwing in the towel" being its meaning:
It may be a typo by " throwing in the towel ".

tirisiada

Surely a mistake by the female tyrannical. See tying, throwing, tyrannical, jaundice.

tiritirar

Version of shivering, close of onomatopoeic origin tir-tir. Although it would not be English, it can mean jingle or ring in some regions of Spain.

titan

Each of the classical gods called Titans. See synonyms.

titanes

Powerful beings of classical mythology who confronted the twelve Olympic gods and were defeated. It comes from the Greek 932; 953; 964; 945; 957; 949; 9> (Titans) which later took the generic character for anyone of great strength. A famous Titan architecture is Atlas, which tends to be sculpted as a column supporting balconies and even buildings.

titiritero

Volatinero , but especially puppet theatre artist; who builds and/or manages a puppet. The etymology seems to come from a small bugle or whistle with a vibrating reed that some puppeteers used to simulate the voice of the doll with a "trii-trii" that replaced the words, especially the more vulgar and profane ones that they could not pronounce (but that everyone understood). See tritri .

tito

1º_ 'Tito' is a male name. It is not very common, and is used for religious influence, as St. Titus of Tarsus is mentioned in the New Testament. It appears in Latin, but taken from the Greek 932; 953; 964; 959; 9> (Titos) , variation of 964; 953; 969; (tío "honest, praised") . 2º_ It is also a hypocoristic, as apheresis of the diminutive for Hector, and for Roberto, Alberto, Humberto, . . . Tito is a town and "comune" in the province of Potenza in the Italian region. 4º_ One of the common names of Lathyrus sativus (legume plant). See latirism, almorta. 5º_ Urinal or bacin, a little higher than the common ones. 6º_ In some regions of Spain it is a way of calling the bone, or stone, or seed, or pea, or fruit seed. 7º_ Colloquial way of calling the uncle ("brother of some father") . Perhaps a childish deformation of the diminutive "tiito". 8º_ Inflection of the verb titar ("to squawk the turkey") . See verbs/titus .

tizona

It is the name of one of the swords of the Cid Champion, according to literary tradition; although there are several weapons in different museums that in some case could be (in whole or in part) the historical Tizona. Initially it was called Tizón, probably an allusion to the wood or burning coals of the forge where it was forged. The use as synonymous with sword is only in poetic form. See laundry (sword), babieca (horse) .

tía cleta

I do not think that we should look much for the origin of an 'Aunt Cleta', since she is a wildcard character in the sayings, sometimes well used in the rhyme (as in "Aunt Cleta's dog, which the first time she barked she was broken by the jeta") and others not so much (as "Aunt Cleta's rooster : bald, but singer" or also "Aunt C's girl , who eats the petates and is frightened by the fans") . And Aunt Cleta not only has animals, there is also a tamal (like "Aunt Cleta's tamal, which was finished tested"), and I think even an umbrella, . . . See being like Aunt Cleta's marrana.

tíaso

In ancient Greece an 'aunt' was a group of people (usually women) who consecrated themselves to a god, and also the place where they met. The original meaning was in the procession of followers of Dionysius, a retinue of drunken partygoers, to which were added the maenads and then the nymphs. It comes from voice 952; 953; 945; 963; 959; 9> (thíasos) which names a group of people with an end, and is as broad as "courtship, circus, company, . . . "

tíndaro

It is another name by which Tyndareus ("mythical king of Sparta") is known.

tíner

Type of organic solvent for oil paints. Your fumes are toxic. It is the spanishing of the English thinner ("slimming, solvent").

tío de la lista

He was a typical character of Spanish cities until the beginning of the 20th century, who as soon as the lottery numbers came out he would run with the list through the streets to report them or distribute them with the newspaper or newspaper. He remained in popular memory as someone who was fast. See uncle ("subject, a person").

tío del saco

It is another version for the "bogeyman" ("folk character who carries children in his bag"). See uncle ("so-and-so, person, subject"), sack ("bag").

títere

Animated doll with different techniques to play a role in a show. The name appears to be an onomatopoeia, since in the puppet theater some puppeteers used a tongue or cornet in the mouth to warp the voice or simply emit a sound ("trii-trii-trii") that replaced the words and that the audience understood the same. Since the 'puppet' is handled by a person, so too are those who allow the self to be manipulated by others. See puppet, tritrite.

título alternativo

See title, alternative .

tk

It has several meanings, none in Spanish, but surely the query is by the shorthand way of writing "thanks" ("thank you") in English, and sometimes within messages in Spanish.

tlapaneco

Name of a Mexican Aboriginal village, although they are called 'mbo me phaa' ("habitant of the Phaa"), since the Aztec voice 'tlapaneco' would be a derogatory ("painted face, dirty face")

tlapanecos

Plural of Tlapaneco, concerning that people and their language.

tlilmixtli

It's not Spanish, it's clearly Nahuatl. It seems to me to be a "storm cloud", and would be formed by tilli ("black, spotted") mixtli ("stone, cloud, compact mass"). If it really exists, it should be seen in nahuatlhuichol/tlilmixtli .

tn

1st_ 'TN' stands for newscasts or news strings for names such as "Telenoticias" or "All News". 2nd_ 'TN' in Argentina is a reference to the category of automotive competition of "National Tourism". 3rd_ 'TN' is another way to abbreviate "TeNo" for Technische Nothilfe ("Technical Emergency Help", German organization). 4th_ 'tn' is an unofficial symbol for tonne, but it appears in some texts. See t . 5th_ ' . tn' is the internet domain for Tunisia.

tnt

'TNT' is an acronym used by the explosive "trinitrotoluene", or also by the protein "Troponin T". Among the international uses can be rescued the television network "Turner Network Television".

to pa mí

It seems like a contraction of "all for me", although, for me, everything should be joined by apostrophes.

to petao

It is a vulgar and shortened form for "todo petado", the latter interpreted as "full", "pleasant", "burst" or "hit", depending on the region. See another version as it is petao.

to piola

It could be an interpretation of "to'piola" ("all piola") as Topiola claims (128533;) , and then the recommendation would be to see everything and piola (lunfardo).

tobogán

While at first it would be a sled to slide through the snow, over time it became a game to slide down a ramp, which can have different heights and end up in the water, the sand, a baseball player, . . . The inventor seems to have been the American Herbert Selner who built it next to a lake in Minnesota and named it Water-Toboggan-Slide. Actually, the toboggan is not English but is taken from the Canadian French tabagnne, an interpretation of the Inuktitut topakan with which the native Algonquin Micmac called their sleds. See inuk . It is also used as a metaphor for a somewhat slower descent of position than a free fall, but just as inevitable.

toc

1º_ 'OCD' is an acronym for obsessive compulsive disorder. 2º_ 'TOC' is the IATA code for the airport of the city of Toccoa (Georgia, USA).

tocomoch

Lunfardo is a so-called WAD that were actually of newspaper with one real at the beginning and another at the end of the stack. They served to make scams.

todabia

Surely a mistake yet.

today

It is understood as the adverb or adjective "today". It is the contraction of the archaic expression to-day.

today

It is not Spanish but English, and it is not used in our language. See english/today ("today, to the day").

todo lo conquista

See all , conquest , verbs / conquest .

todos

Plural of everything.

todos en la cama o todos en el suelo

This phrase may be missing a comma, perhaps a few ellipsis, but it is still understood. It means that "everything must be shared equally and without privileges." The comparison is that if they do not all fit to sleep in a bed, then it is only fair that everyone sleeps on the floor.

tofe

Tofé (" English Toffee " pr. " tofi ") It is a sweet candy butter cream.

toffee

It is not Spanish, and is Spanish as a tofi. See English/toffee .

toilette

1º_ Toilette (pr . tualet) is a French word formed by toile ("cloth") the suffix -ette (diminutive), which was originally a cloth for personal hygiene or the same hygiene , and the English version toilet (pr . toilet) popularized as "dressing room, room with sink and bathroom with toilet". In Spanish it is used more with the last meaning . Ver viorsi , vater . 2º_ The 'eau de toilette' ('bathing water' in French) is an aromatic cosmetic for personal use with a 10% essence in relation to alcohol. See extract, perfume, cologne.

toji

Toji , To-ji or T 333;ji , in Japanese 26481; 23546; (too yi "temple of the east") , is a Buddhist temple of the Shingon sect that is located in the city of Kyoto.

tokenización

It is a Spanish version of the English neologism tokenization, which can be used in our language because the word token already circulates in many environments, although with various interpretations. In principle, it would be the "effect of tokenizing, converting or giving symbol value to something or someone" that is used in sociology, especially for cases in which a merely formal or decorative position, position or category is given, just to show that it is taken into account and on many occasions for a matter of image. such as when it comes to including representatives of a minority or a traditionally discriminated group. It is precisely for this last reason that there is an ironic equivalent as "florism" (or "tokenism"). However, there are other, more technical uses, such as converting data to a token (information that represents data but does not contain in itself any meaning that relates to the original), and it is an alternative to encryption.

tolerancia cero

It is a hose used by authoritarian-cutting governments (we could say facho) to validate repressive policies against their voters, who generally ask that criminals, the corrupt, guerrillas be persecuted without any consideration or legal guarantee; which always gives them an endorsement to spy, control and repress any opponent, not to mention getting rid of poor, marginal and others excluded from the socioeconomic system. The same term also applies to errors of a work team, or to the distribution and consumption of alcoholic beverages, to name two controllable cases.

toli

1º_ 'Toli' is a chiefdom in the Eastern Province (Sierra Leone). 2º_ It is said of someone foolish, misplaced, who embarrasses others. Surely an affectionate form of the Galician tolo or its diminutive toliño ("crazy, obfuscated"). 3º_ Labrador, who drives a plow. [I don't know the origin, and I don't know if it can be a cause or consequence of the previous one. See palette ("palero"), Nazi ("Natzi").] 4º_ 'Toli' is a male name, and I guess it comes directly from the "field worker".

tolomeico

It is a simpler version of pronouncement than Ptolemaic.

tolonga

It can be a female tolongo, even a typing error by the female tilingo, but - as in many cases - this is a wild word that sounds funny or nice and is used to name anything, especially if it hangs (such as "penis" or "testicle") .

tomar el olivo

Or " take the olive " they mean " " flee. There are several explanations for the term, but the immediate origin seems to be Bull. Breeders of bulls in Spain were surrounded by olive groves, and when some animal escaped everyone nearby ran to plantations to climb a tree and get away from the animal. That is why there are a barrier of protection where the bullfighters can take refuge in Bullrings and called " 34 olive; The entire phrase would be " take them to the side of the olive tree ".

tomar las de villa diego

It is a mistake to "take those of Villadiego" ("take the yellow huts of Villadiego") , "take those of Villadiego", or variants such as "take take those of Villadiego", "undertake those of Villadiego" 128530; , and "take the Villadiego" where there is a description of the origin of the phrase.

tomar los puntos sobre la ies

Are you serious? And the next what will be: «Eat the points on the IES», «To dance the points on the IES», «To cough up the points on the ies»? . See put the points on the dot, put the points to the dot, put the points in the IES, and others.

tomarle el pelo a una persona

See tease, tease someone, bacilar.

tomarse un cacharro

Here it is understood that the pot ("glass, container") is full of some drink (almost always spirit). See tomar ("drink"), se (pronoun), a ("indeterminate masculine article").

tomarse una birra

Ver tomar ("drink"), se (pronoun), a ("indeterminate feminine article"), birra ("beer").

tomarse una litrona

Ver tomar ("drink"), se (pronoun), a ("indeterminate feminine article"), litrona ("liter of beer in a bottle").

tomatas

In principle it is the plural of tomata. But it may refer to Tomatas Grande, a village in the department of Tarija (Bolivia).

tomate

1st Fruit of the tomato, herbaceous plant (Solanum lycopersicum) Originally from America, as a curiosity, is consumed as a vegetable and many people do not associate with fruit. The name in Nahuatl is Tomatl, and if I'm not mistaken means "water bloated", surely some Aztec collaborator will confirm or correct the data. See tomatoes. 2^o _ Red Color similar to the tomato fruit. 3^o _ Hair impeller.

tomatinas

Plural of tomatine, in its different meanings.

tomatodo

Although it comes from a commercial brand, today it is a generic name for bottles with straws widely used by athletes to carry with them in exercises, and they also call travel thermoses that way. 2^o _ It is another name for the game of the perinole or pirinola, precisely because on one of its sides this top bears the inscription "Take everything" (. . . the pot put in by the players) .

tomillo

Common name for the plant Thymus vulgaris, although there are other herbs with this name.

tommy

1^o _ It is indeed a diminutive in English of the name Thomas, but in Spanish it is used as a hypocoristic of Thomas, because its diminutive would be "Tomasito". 2nd_ 'Tommy' is the title of the fourth studio album by The Who (1969), a rock opera that was made into a film by Ken Russell in 1975.

tomóle

Well, for so many queries that lack his accent, some had to spare. See take .

tompiate

It's a basket used by aboriginal people in Mexico to store food and keep it warm. It comes from Nahuatl tompiatli (

"basket, basket") . View templates .

tompiales

It is the plural of tompiate; well, it's an allusion to the testicles. It has Nahuatl origin and of course is used in Mexico.

tomusa

Error by tomuza .

tomuza

1º_ American Indian people, inhabited the interior of the current Venezuelan territory. The origin of the name seems to be arawac, and would mean "mountain". 2º_ Scrambled hair, disheveled. It comes from the previous one, because of the way the tomuzas used their hair. See afro (hairstyle).

tonga

Variant of tongo. A so-called tongar verb inflection. See: entongar.

tongo

It is a fraud on the game or sport. It has its origin the tongo germania, which means compromise or delusion. The first recognizable form appears in a medieval game of betting with tokens or coins in what is now Spanish territory, where as a " 34 tongo; It was a " stacking objects " , the toco of tokens or coins, which gives the name to the game. The germania appears afterwards for making trap, that is no longer a " 34 tongo; but a person " 34 thong; a " 34 accomplice; that helps to win any of the bettors. . . or to the House. The term survives until today in the Río de la Plata slang, where a " 34 thong; He is the Assistant of a 34, punguista " (" thief descuidista ") , or employee who pretends that it wins in casinos and organise to encourage true gamblers. To be forgotten posture original, " 34 tongo; He ended up as a synonym for sporting fraud, where extended to bribery to force a result.

tontin

If it were "Tontín" it could be the name of many characters in addition to a diminutive, but without an accent it does not mean anything, not even the nick of the person who made the query, to which he did put tilde.

tontín

1º_ 'Tontín' is an affectionate diminutive of "fool". 2º_ For the previous one, it was a name widely used for naïve or clueless characters or simply fools, especially in dubbing series and films in Spanish. Some of the best known are: a dwarf from the film 'Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs' (Walt Disney, 1937), which in the original version is called Dopey ("mute"), and also one of the series 'The 7E' (The 7D) based on the same characters; a smurf who was also called 'Clumsy' and in the Belgian original was Bêta ("stupid") or Maladroit ("clumsy"); one of the pilots of the animated series 'The Diabolical Squadron' (Dick Dastardly Muttley in their Flying Machines, Hanna-Barbera, 1969), who in the original was Zilly; it is also the name of characters from stories, clowns and surely the nickname of some person. See Pierre Nodoyuna , Patan .

tontos

Fool plural.

topadora

1º_ Female bulldozer ("que topa") . 2º_ Precisely because of the previous one, it is said of a vehicle of great force and traction that serves to bump and knock down trees, walls, illegal settlements 128530; , . . .

topisimo

It seems to be a mistake because of topissima, as an adjective and superlative of top ("tope, the highest").

toples

For purely feminine use, it is to wear a two-piece mesh without the top, leaving the breasts uncovered. By extension is any circumstance in which you take your torso uncovered. It comes from topless English, top ("up, top") less ("without, lack of").

topo

In addition to the good definitions that has this entry, I add the of "undercover agent", "infiltrated contraespia".

topo gigio

The Mole Gigio is a character started in puppet theatre and then moved on to other media such as comics, film, anime or television where he was more popular. Created by Italian puppeteer Maria Perego in 1958, it depicts an anthropomorphic mouse that sings, tells tales, and has routines with people who converse with it. He is known all over the world by his original name (except in Japan where Toppo Jijoo is used) which in English can be translated as "Lucho mouse", because Gigio is a hypocoristic of Luigi (Luis). See topoyiyo , Petete , Narizota .

topoyiyo

I am not sure about this fact, but perhaps some Honduran collaborator will clarify the doubt. The 'topoyiyo' would be a juice or sweet drink that is served frozen and distributed in bags to which someone saw a mouse-like shape, and associated it with the popular puppet of the Topo Gigio.

topónimo

It is a name referring to a geographical place. From the Greek 964; 959; 9< 959; 9> (moles "place") 959; 957; 959; 956; 945; (onoma "name") .

tops

It is actually English, but in some Spanish-speaking sites this plural of English/top with the same meaning is used. See also top (bikini top).

toque blanche

The blanche touch is another more popular name for the tuque ("cook's hat") which is usually blanche ("white color" in French).

toque de codos

Usually we Latinos are effusive when it comes to greeting, and then kisses, hugs, pats appear, at least a handshake. But in some contexts, such as an epidemic of contact contagion, many of those greetings should be avoided. And since we can't stand the genius, we end up inventing a "touch or shock of elbows" greeting that is less risky and remains a way of showing affection, that you don't feel a rejection towards the other.

toquecito

Diminutive of touch in several of its meanings, although the most used is for an even more minimized form of "blow".

toqueteado

1o_ Adjective for something or someone who has been groped, touched in excess. Figuratively, it is some mechanism that has been modified illegally, without authorization or outside the rules. 2o_ Past participle of the verb touchtear .

torá

[illegible]

torcida

1^o_ Female crooked. 2nd_ Wick of a candle . 3rd_ Daily ration for the milling officer. 4th_ Brazilian sports fans, especially football fans.

torcía

1°_ Vulgarism by crooked ("wick of the candles", "daily ration for the milling officer", . . .) . 2°_ Inflection of the verb to twist. See verbs/twist .

torda

In lunfardo, female " thrush ". Doctor. See synonyms.

tordillo

1o_ Animal, usually a horse, with the fur mixed with black and white, which gives it a grayish appearance, lighter or darker depending on which hair is most abundant. 2o_ Diminutive of tordo .

tordo

1st_ Ave native to South America, which has been expanding northward. She is considered a parasite because she lays her eggs in the nests of other birds. 2nd_ Tordillo Regression, as a shorter way to name it. 3o_ In lunfardo is the vesre de "dotor", which is a bad pronunciation of doctor .

tordo patagón

It is another common name for the bird Cyraeus cyraeus.

tordos

Plural of tordo .

torera

1º_ Feminine of bullfighter. 2nd_ Bullfighting pass. 3º_ Kind of jacket, usually sleeveless.

tormenta de ideas

Actually this locution is a Spanish version of the anglicism brainstorming, which is a working method to share creative ideas in a group.

tornamesa

Sorry the English translation turntable (turnteibl, "turntable tray").

tornamesas

Plural of turntable. See turntable.

torné

Inflection of the verb to turn . See verbs/torné .

tornillo de arquímedes

Machine created by Arquímedes of Syracuse. A screw with a Helix is large enough to drag from one fluid end, land, grain, water, and which rotates inside a cylinder to prevent spillage of the contents until it comes out at the other end.

torniscn

It is a trolling by torniscón ("pinch").

torniscón

Pinch that is done by taking the skin with two fingers and turning the hand. The name comes from lathe, precisely because of the turn.

toro

1º_ Common name of the male bovid (the female is the cow) Bos taurus . It is also used as an adjective for something or someone very strong. See El Toro. 2º_ Toro is a geometric body that can be described as a cylinder curved to join its bases forming a ring. Also the moldings that have that shape totally or partially. See toroid .

torombolo

Character of the Strip Archie, created by John Goldwater, Vic Bloom and Bob mountain equipment. The real name is Forsythe Pendleton Jones III, but all known as Torombolo.

torpesa

Awkward error.

torrar

1º_ Toast, put on the heat or heat until browning, remove moisture. From the Latin torrare , with the same meaning . 2º_ In lunfardo is "sleep" . The origin may be in those who made changa like coffee torradores, who had to stir the beans put on the fire every long time, and took advantage of the downtime to make their short naps in working hours 128578; . Watch creeping, tormenting .

torrentes

Plural of torrent ("stream of fluid, especially liquid, flowing at high speed").

torres del paine

Torres del Paine is a group of mountains in the Cordillera Paine, southern Chile. 2nd_ Commune in the Province of Última Esperanza (Magallanes and Chilean Antarctic Region, Chile). 3rd_ Chilean National Park located in the Torres del Paine commune.

torreznos

Plural of torrezno .

torridness

It is not Spanish, and I believe that it would not be English either, as it would be a neologism from English/torrid as "torridez".

torta

1°_ It is a cake, usually round in shape. 2°_ By the preparation of the previous one, and figuratively, any group of similar elements that come together for a result. 3°_ Cake chart. 4°_ Blow, tortazo . 5°_ Zurrada . 6°_ Reduced shape of tortillera (lesbian).

tortazo

Hit given with a cake or cake. It actually extends to any punch, and this must come from the cake routines of clowns, who threw cakes (props, with soap scum cream) to their faces.

tortilla

In slang, is called " 34 tortilla; a sexual relationship between women, and " 34 dykes; to those who practice it. As the word is too long, was popularly summarized as " cakes ". In Mexico and Central America, the tortilla is a cake or bread prepares slapping the dough again and again.

tortilla

Prepared food frying egg beaten with potatoes (potatoes) and that you may have added onion, cheese and ham.

tortilla de huevo con pollo

And. . . It is an omelette (which is made with egg) to which chicken meat is added.

tortillera

Lunfardo is " lesbian 34. Although the source should not be rioplatense, since in that region is called tortilla to a food fried and scrambled. On the other hand, in Central America and Mexico tortilla is a cake of maize being prepared slapping the dough repeatedly, which could create the analogy with the sexual practice among women.

tortis

Form loving call in lunfardo lesbians (" 34 cakes; or " 34 dykes;).

tortón

1°_ Augmentative masculinized "cake" ("cake") . 2°_ For the previous one, it is a pejorative way of calling a lesbian, which in this case would be a regressive version of "tortillera". See also cake. 3°_ Variant of "tortazo" ("slap, blow, stumble") . 4°_ Instrument for immobilizing cattle. 5°_ Each turn of a bar that adjusts a chain or tie of logs for transport. 6°_ In some countries it is a vulgarized form of the Torthon truck brand.

tortuga boba

It is synonymous with cayume, and the definition repeated in several more entries; so I leave a link and don't write it again.

tortugota

Increased turtle, for a large size.

tos convulsa

Also called convulsive cough or pertussis, it is a disease that produces a strong cough, with seizures. See convulsive.

toscano

1º_ Gentilicio and relative to the region Tuscany (Italy) . 2º_ In the Río de la Plata is a generic for "cigar of Italian origin", although in reality 'Toscano®' is the trademark of a traditional cigar created by accident in the Manifattura Tabacchi of Florence in the early nineteenth century, when a storm wet some that were reserved for the Grand Duke of Tuscany, and that they were dried for not discarding them, discovering that the rain had intensified their flavor. Although with other owners, the brand – which pays homage to the duke – still exists.

tostada

1o_ Feminine roasting (adjective and participle) . 2o_ As a noun is a bread (usually sliced) that is roasted on both sides until it dries and acquires stiffness to spread it with sweets or creams.

tostado

1o_ As an adjective it is "something, usually edible, which was put to heat to dry and brown on its outer layer". It is also a "brownish color", like the one that takes what you put on the fire. 2o_ As a noun it is usually applied to a food that is served after roasting it; in Buenos Aires, for example, a 'toasted' is a "crumb bread sandwich with ham and cheese heated to dorarlo". See toast (noun) . 3o_ Past participle of the verb tostar .

tour gira

View tour , tour (noun)

tovarich

Comrade, companion, in Russian language. It is the Cyrillic form of 1058; 1086; 1074; 1072; 1088; 1080; 1097;. As a nod, some members of the Communist Party were called in this way, since the communism as a political party was created in Russia, then turned into the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics.