

SPANISH DICTIONARY

andres alberto molina coutiño

INTRODUCTION

www.wordmeaning.org is an open and collaborative dictionary project that, apart from being able to consult meanings of words, also offers its users the possibility of including new words or nuancing the meaning of existing words in it. As is understandable, this project would be impossible to carry out without the esteemed collaboration of the people who follow us around the world. This e-Book, therefore, was born with the intention of paying a small tribute to all our collaborators.

andres alberto molina coutiño has contributed to the dictionary with 4 meanings that we have approved and collected in this small book. We hope that the reader is very valuable and if you find it useful or want to be part of the project, do not hesitate to visit our website, we will be delighted to receive you.

Working Group

www.wordmeaning.org

bienaventurado

Blessed : Possibly the blessed word wants to say literally "good wind" since in the navigation of sailing boats, the wind was required to blow in favor of navigator of that same root is born the word adventure (which goes in favor of the wind) adventurous person who undertakes an adventure. That's why blessed is someone who goes for life in favor of the wind, sure that everything will work out for him.

chuquija

Chuquija : In southern Mexico we use this word when we cannot define the smell of an object, we simply say : This chuquija and can refer to a glass, a rag or any object that did not wash well. The origins of this word are found in the Nahuatl language "xoquializtli" whose meaning is "sulfur stone stench".

pichito

Pichito : In southern Mexico, in the Chiapas region the word Pichito is the diminutive of pichi which means small child and possibly the word comes from the mapundungun native language of Chile, where you will find a series of words with the prefix pichi .

tepezcuintle

Tepezcuintle : Nahuatl tepezcuintli, tepetl, hill, and itzcuintli, dog, that is, hill or mountain dog. . The tepezcuintles were appreciated for their delicious meat, which was prepared in mole of broad chili, roasted, to the shepherd.