INTRODUCTION

www.wordmeaning.org is an open and collaborative dictionary project that, apart from being able to consult meanings of words, also offers its users the possibility of including new words or nuancing the meaning of existing words in it. As is understandable, this project would be impossible to carry out without the esteemed collaboration of the people who follow us around the world. This e-Book, therefore, was born with the intention of paying a small tribute to all our collaborators.

Javier Gómez has contributed to the dictionary with 1 meanings that we have approved and collected in this small book. We hope that the reader is very valuable and if you find it useful or want to be part of the project, do not hesitate to visit our website, we will be delighted to receive you.

vicera

In the town of Borobia (Soria) bordering on Aragon, the vicera was also related to the community grazing of mountain cows, resulting also the same procedure of collecting cows, such as goats, in the morning and taking them to the village in the afternoon, in which each animal went only to the owner's house; The shepherd brought in his backpack the kid if he had given birth to the goat. There were two different viceras, each with its shepherd goatherd or cowboy. The call was made with a bagpipe from the top of the hill of the castle, in the center of the town, first the cowboy and then the goatherd always. There was another equal grazing for the mules of the town for when they did not have to work, which in this case is called "gluttony"
